DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6, 11, and 13-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Manning (WO 96/22562).

Manning discloses an optical Mach-Zehnder time division demultiplexer comprising first and second arms, each having a nonlinear optical element (NLE) for receiving a data stream and a time delay induced by a control signals which can be adjusted. See pages 6-7 and lines 5-12 of column 9. See claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-10 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Manning (WO 96/22562).

Manning, as discussed above, fails to disclose the time delay element comprises a material of variable thickness in shape of a wedge or staircase, a heating element, a waveguide having a variable index of refraction, or a material with an electro-optic effect.

Such claimed time delay elements are well known in the art. Choosing the desired time delay element from the available well-known time delay elements would be within the reach of the ordinary skilled artisan. Note, the Manning reference discloses different types of non-linear optical materials and choosing the compatible time delay element would be certainly desirable to one of the ordinary skilled artisan.

As discussed above, Manning discloses the control signals to induce the time delay.

From available well known time delay elements, the ordinary artisan would have found it obvious at the time of the invention to select the claimed time delay element for the time delay element of Manning for the purpose of advantageously providing a compatible optical demultiplexer.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-20 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-21 of copending Application No. 09/811,720. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other. The limitations recited in the claims of the instant application are disclosed in the claims of the copending application No. 09/811,720, except it fails to disclose a coupler for routing the optical signals. However, it is well known in the art to use the coupler for routing the signals.

From available well-known techniques, the ordinary artisan would have found it to be obvious at the time of the invention to provide the coupler for the purpose of advantageously routing the optical signals.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Conclusion

The prior art submitted by applicant has been considered. See attached copies of form PTO-1449.

Since the Manning reference used in the above rejections was submitted by applicant in the prior art statement, no copy thereof is provided with this Office action.
